- Alan C. Walter

THE VALUE OF FINANCIAL FITNESS ANALYSIS

Knowing what outcomes you are really trying to achieve in life can cause a tremendous upgrade in your concentration and focus. The Financial Fitness Analysis lays out what the outcomes are of your physical and telepathic actions, intentions and perceptions.

Many people are fighting themselves, and thus restraining, their strengths, abilities and power without knowing it. This analysis can help you consolidate and redirect what you are actually producing and thus utilize your strengths, abilities and power by showing you what is actually there. I have seen clients cause tremendous upgrades in their life just by recognizing what the analysis graph revealed.

The Financial Fitness Analysis is the result of more than thirty years of training and consulting hundreds of thousands of people and tens of thousands of hours of research and observation. This vast quantity of experience brought to view whole patterns of behavior. It revealed what was important and what was not important to achieve a successful, healthier, wealthier, and happier life.

This analysis gives a profile of correct or incorrect physical and telepathic actions that are a result of your knowledge, skills, and abilities. Your answers to these specialized questions creates a score in six different areas. This tells you what your mind-sets are, how they direct your actions, and their effects on these vital personal financial fitness traits. From this your financial future can be predicted. This is not a test of how clever you are, you will not "pass" or "fail" the analysis. It is vital that you answer the questions honestly as this is what gives the picture or profile of how you are or are not utilizing your capabilities and what will be your financial outcomes in the future.

CORE SKILLS & ACTIVITIES

THE ABILITY TO HAVE

HAVE: v.tr. 1. a. To be in possession of: already had a car.

This is the most important column on the Financial Fitness Graph.

97% of people score in the Red Zone in this skill.

If your result is below the bold horizontal line that runs through the Yellow Zone, it means you're operating from a mindset of "working not to have."

If your result is above that line but still within the Yellow Zone, it means you're "struggling to have."

If your result is in the Green Zone, you have the ability to "have" - the higher in the green zone the higher your ability to have anything you want.

When someone scores in the Red Zone in this area, it usually means they grew up under intense negative programming like: "You can't do that," "You shouldn't be that," "You're not supposed to want that." This kind of input creates an unconscious resistance to having, being, or doing. A weak ability "to have" blocks the development of all the other financial skills.

THE ABILITY TO HAVE

BY ALAN C. WALTER

"This column is the key to everything.

*If your score is below the dark center line running horizontal in the Yellow Zone, refer to the second column at the top "Levels of Existence."
The line is between the Development/Anxiety and Stability/Threatened Levels of Existence column.*

*This means you are working "to not have."
If your score is above the dark middle line in the Yellow Zone it means you are struggling "to have."*

*If your score is in the Green Zone, you have the ability "to have" anything.
I have reviewed hundreds of Financial Fitness Profile results.
97% of the scores in this column are Red Zone.*

*Most people can't have.
It does not matter if they have it - they can't have it.
They don't feel worthy enough. They don't feel they are good enough.
They feel they should not get whatever they are trying to achieve and they feel they don't deserve it.*

*They are usually told they are worthless and no good.
There is a lot of negative processing that has happened which causes the person to feel this way.
(see definition of negative processing on page 40)

Life, family, parents, or groups have negatively processed you by telling you what can't be done, why it can't be done and what should not be done.

*Anyone who has had the normal upbringing, where the parent does not know how to acknowledge, cannot validate, or if you have had relationships where there is no validation of one another, this positions you to "can't have."
Can't have is also similar to You can't do and You can't be.
Most people are told You can't be,
You can't do, and You can't have.*

In this type of situation, people use power and outside forces to say what is the correct way to behave, the right way to act or do.

*The basic negative process of life being run is "You can't be this, You can't do this, or You can't have this."
You can't have your dreams,
You can't be, can't do and can't have.*

*So, this Ability to Have column is a very important column.
When you are in the Red Zone on having-ness which is the ability to have,
you are actually rejecting having, you are against it.
Due to a person's upbringing, the duplication of successful actions is usually very low because it was absent in the environment.*

*Therefore, the duplication of wealth or anything of any value is not there because the person has seen very little of it.
This is a very important factor.*

*There are two things that you must have to get wealthy.
The first is discipline and the second is duplication.
If you have those two things you can be successful anytime.*

*If you are in the Green Zone, you have an ability “to have”
Do more of the successful actions you are doing to expand your game.”*

THE ABILITY TO HAVE

THINK ABOUT THIS:

How worthy or deserving do you feel about (money, friends, love, happiness)?

Describe your answer in detail.

This image shows a full page of blank handwriting practice paper. It features approximately 20 evenly spaced, horizontal green lines across the entire width of the page. The background is a solid off-white color, providing a clean surface for writing practice. There are no margins, text, or other markings present.

THE ABILITY TO HAVE

EXERCISE:

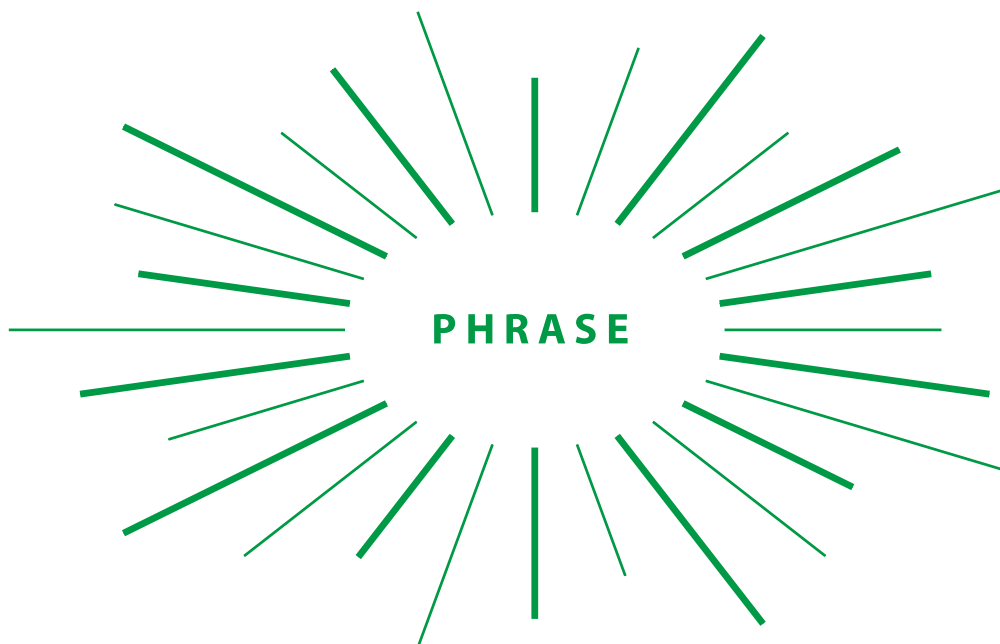

Make a list of 10 things you currently have in your life—material, emotional, or spiritual. For each one, write down why you feel worthy of having it.

THE ABILITY TO HAVE

BONUS ACTIVITY:

Think of a negative phrase you heard as a child—something like “You can’t do that.” or “Children should be seen and not heard.” or “You shouldn’t ask for more, you should be grateful for what you have.” Write that phrase in the center of the graph, and now repeat it out loud using different moods until it loses its power. Examples of moods: (Anger, Boredom, Enthusiasm.)

THE ABILITY TO INVESTIGATE

The ability to investigate is the ability to observe, decide, and act.

OBSERVATION: The ability to see what is there.

DECIDE: v. 1. To conclude or settle. 2. To influence or determine the conclusion of. 3. To cause to make or reach a decision. 4. To pronounce a judgement; announce a verdict. 5. To make up one's mind.

ACTION: n. 1. The state or process of doing something. 2. A movement or series of movements. 3. Activity

O.D.A.A.: OBSERVE—DECIDE—ACT—ACCOMPLISHMENT. The four cornerstones of power. This is the sequence that produces powerful people and powerful results. It is the sequence by which we live.

The ability to Investigate is a crucial skill for making money because it requires you to observe correctly and to focus—and stay focused.

Many people veer off course just when they're about to achieve something big, simply because they can't maintain their focus. This skill also includes the ability to find the right answers.

One of the secrets to living a successful life is having the right answers.

THE ABILITY TO INVESTIGATE

BY ALAN C. WALTER

"If you can have, you can investigate.

*Having-ness is also duplication in its truest sense,
you can own something.*

The ability to investigate is the ability to observe, decide and act.

It's very important if you are going to make money because it demands that you observe correctly.

The second thing is demanding the ability to focus and stay focused.

*A common pattern among people is to get into something and veer off because they are not able to stay focused.
They go off and do other things...*

*So many people are just about to win the big one;
they don't even notice it and go off and do something else because they don't think they can make it.*

The ability to investigate includes finding right answers.

In the Red Zone, you find a bunch of wrong answers instead of finding right answers.

*In the Yellow Zone, when you find answers,
you are not sure of them.*

*In the Green Zone,
you not only find the right answers,
but you know they are the right answers.*

And one of the secrets to having a successful life is having right answers.

*Having a high level of curiosity is your natural state.
If you don't have a high level of curiosity, locate a time you did and write out what you were doing and what happened."*

THE ABILITY TO INVESTIGATE

Having a high level of curiosity is your natural state. If you don't have a high level of curiosity something has happened.

Maybe as a child you asked a lot of questions and someone told you "You ask a lot of questions." (In a low mood or negative mood level) or maybe in school you did not get what the teacher was explaining and you did not get it. You had to ask them again to explain it and were made wrong or laughed at by the class.

Or raised by parents who felt "children should be seen but not heard."

CURIOSITY RECOVERY EXERCISE

1. Locate a time when you had a high level of curiosity.

Write when it was.

2. Write out what you were doing.

Describe it in detail.

3. What happened?

Describe what happened and how you felt.

EXERCISE:

- What are the benefits of investing in precious metals like gold or silver?
- What's the difference between active income and passive income?
- What financial habits do millionaires have in common?

This image shows a full page of white paper with horizontal green lines, resembling notebook paper. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

BONUS ACTIVITY:

Ask 3 smart questions about the topic you researched. For example, if you chose the topic of precious metals:

- What are the benefits and risks of investing in gold or silver compared to other types of investments?
- During which historical periods has the value of gold increased, and why?
- What are my options as a beginner investor to safely purchase precious metals?

THE ABILITY TO FOCUS

FOCUS: The place where a visual image is clearly formed, as in the mind's eye, or camera, that sets in motion what is imagined so that it can manifest in the physical universe.

Concentration is the focusing of life-force particles to achieve a specific result. Therefore, plenty of life-force particles and a specific point of focus are needed. How, then, does one create a point of focus? By decisions, precepts, opinions, intentions and ideas.

Your focus reveals where you currently stand.

In the Red Zone, you're scattered and focused on the wrong things.

In the Yellow Zone, you're focused out of obligation—not by choice.

In the Green Zone, you're living your dream, and your attention is fully aligned with it.

THE ABILITY TO FOCUS

BY ALAN C. WALTER

*"In the Red Zone,
you are really in a dispersal
you are elsewhere and not there.
You are focused on the wrong things.*

In the Yellow Zone, you are sort of being made to focus and not working on your own determination.

*In the Green Zone,
you are living your dream,
your focus is outward on your dream,
and you are living it."*

THE ABILITY TO FOCUS

THINK ABOUT THIS:

What is your dream?

Describe it in as much detail as you can.

Write about:

- What you want to achieve or experience.
- Why it matters to you.
- How you imagine it will feel when you've achieved it.
- What your life will look like when it's accomplished.

The more vividly you describe your dream, the more clearly your mind can focus on it — and the more your actions will naturally move you toward it.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal green ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are no margins, text, or other markings on the paper.

THE ABILITY TO FOCUS

EXERCISE:

For one full day, track every moment when you lose focus on your dreams and long-term goals.

Reflect on each instance using questions like:

- What distracted me from thinking about or working toward my dream in that moment?
- What was I thinking or feeling right before I shifted my attention away?
- What should I have been doing to stay aligned with my dream?
- What will I do differently next time to stay on track?

Example: I got caught up scrolling through social media instead of working on my business idea. I was feeling tired and looking for quick entertainment. I should have been outlining the next steps for my product launch. Tomorrow, I'll set a 30-minute time block to work on my business plan before I even open any social apps.

At the end of the day, take a moment to reflect on your patterns and identify the biggest distractions pulling you away from your dreams.

[illegible]

THE ABILITY TO FOCUS

BONUS ACTIVITY:

Presence Exercise

Take time each day to practice Presence by doing the following exercise:

1. Read the definition of Presence: Presence is best defined as YOU, the spiritual or god-like Being, being fully aware, and at the optimum mood level, here. Hereness is best defined as, at this place, at this time.

2. Where are you willing to be present?

Think about the environments, situations, or activities where you feel comfortable, engaged, and fully attentive. These could be places or scenarios where you feel a sense of peace, joy, or productivity. Examples might include being present at a family gathering, while working on a hobby you love, during a meaningful conversation, or while spending time in nature. Write down the places or situations where you find it easy and enjoyable to be fully present. Write down your answers and what came to view.

3. Where would you rather not be present?

Reflect on the environments, situations, or activities where you feel uncomfortable, distracted, or disengaged. These might be places or scenarios where you experience stress, anxiety, or a lack of interest. Examples could include being in a confrontational meeting, during a tedious task at work, in a chaotic environment, or when dealing with negative people. Write down the places or situations where you find it challenging to be fully present and note any specific thoughts or feelings that come up when you think about these situations. Write down your answers and what came to view.

4. Set a timer for one minute and, in silence, focus your attention fully on the present moment—right here, right now—for 60 seconds.

All you're doing is focusing your attention on the present. If you have thoughts, just let them pass by and continue to be present. After your timer goes off, answer question 5.

5. What did you notice?

Write down your answer and what came to view. There is no right or wrong, or good or bad. You are simply writing what you noticed. Repeat this process at least twice until you experience a win.

THE ABILITY TO INVEST

INVEST: To spend or utilize attention, time, money or effort for future advantage or benefit

The ability to invest is the ability to allocate resources in a way that generates positive returns.

This skill is what separates those who thrive from those who struggle.

Investing isn't magic—it's about observing, deciding, and taking action to place your resources (time, money, energy) where they'll produce a return.

Someone who knows how to invest also knows how to make mistakes, correct them, and keep moving forward.

If you don't have money, it's likely because you've made poor investment choices. This skill gives you the power to choose wisely and grow.

THE ABILITY TO INVEST

BY ALAN C. WALTER

"Having this ability is the difference between poor folks and rich folks.

*The question is, what did you invest in?
You have to work smart.*

*It takes the correct investigation, ability to focus and ability to invest.
Even in the worst of times, there are a lot of things out there that are positive.
Most people become their jobs and they become their investment.*

*Very able people are able to cut their losses.
They can walk away and let go.
The unable people ride it all the way up and all the way down;
they cannot let go.*

The ability to invest is an incredible ability.

*The ability to make money is an ability;
it is not some magical thing.*

It is an ability to make things happen.

You get paid for what you do.

That is all you get paid for.

*To work smart, you have to be able to have,
be able to investigate,
have the ability to focus,
and have the ability to invest.*

*The only reason you don't have money, very simply, is because you invested
in the wrong career,
wrong relationship,
wrong business,
wrong company,
wrong stock, etc.*

*Someone in the Green Zone has the ability to be wrong.
What is the big deal about being wrong?*

*When you are in there playing the game,
any game,
you make mistakes.
You make mistakes and you do things wrong.
But also, in the process of making mistakes you find out how to do it right.*

*You have to be able to make the mistakes.
There is nothing wrong with doing it wrong.
You have to have the ability to be wrong.*

*The secret to anything is to just do it.
Then find out what you are doing and then do it some more.*

*People who walk around in life afraid of making a mistake are in the Red Zone.
They are stopped dead.
They can't invest.*

*The first sign you have a problem with your investments is you can't talk about it.
You should be able to talk to anyone about it.
You end up finding things out and learning other's viewpoints."*

THE ABILITY TO INVEST

THINK ABOUT THIS:

Where are you currently investing your time, energy, and money?

Describe your answer in detail.

Example:

Right now, I'm investing most of my time and energy in a full-time job that pays the bills, but leaves me feeling stuck and uninspired. The emotional cost is high — I'm constantly tired, I have little time for myself or my family, and I feel like I'm just surviving, not living.

Financially, I make just enough to cover basic expenses, but not enough to eat healthy, take vacations, or invest in better education or experiences for myself or my loved ones. Lately, I've started to realize that staying in this job is also an investment — one that may not be aligned with the kind of life I truly want. It's made me think about what would happen if I started investing more of my time and energy into building something of my own.

It's scary to think about leaving the security of a paycheck, but even scarier to imagine waking up 10 years from now in the exact same place. Maybe it's time to take smarter risks and redirect my resources toward a future that actually excites me.

This image shows a full page of blank handwriting practice paper. It features ten evenly spaced, horizontal green lines across the entire width of the page. The background is a solid off-white color, providing a clean surface for writing practice. There are no margins, text, or other markings present.

THE ABILITY TO INVEST

EXERCISE:

Make a list of your current investments—consider investments in people, careers, relationships, businesses, teams, or projects.

Are there any investments you should currently let go of?

What have been the most successful investments you have ever made?

This image shows a full page of blank, lined paper. It features approximately 20 evenly spaced horizontal green lines across its entire width. The background is a solid off-white color, typical of standard notebook paper. There are no margins, text, or other markings present.

THE ABILITY TO INVEST

BONUS ACTIVITY:

Create an “Ideal Investment List” of areas where you’d like to start investing more. This list should directly support your biggest dreams and long-term aspirations.

For example:

- Investing time and effort in learning the skills needed to launch your dream business.
- Investing in advanced training or certifications to achieve your ideal career position.
- Investing money in a property or project that moves you closer to your dream lifestyle.
- Investing attention and energy in your health so you can have the vitality to enjoy your goals.
- Investing in travel experiences that expand your vision and inspire your next big step.

[illegible]

THE ABILITY TO PRODUCE

PRODUCE: To create one's product in such a way that it is of value, is that which was promised to be, is of high quality and can be exchanged for something of value.

This skill is key to building wealth.

You don't get paid for what you know—you get paid for what you produce.

If you do what everyone else does, you'll get what everyone else gets.

But if you produce something unique and valuable, your income will grow.

Producing isn't just about being busy—it's about creating something that has real impact and delivers results. Those who know how to produce know how to move, adapt, and deliver.

THE ABILITY TO PRODUCE

BY ALAN C. WALTER

*"This is very important in making money.
Obviously, you get paid for what you do.
If you have a job that is very similar to everyone else,
you will get mediocre pay.*

*If your job is very rare
and wanted by a lot,
you get a lot of pay.*

*One of the hardest things about doing any business is building a business.
It's one of the hardest because in the first year
you don't know anyone,
and no-one knows what you are doing.*

*The secret is just do it
and do lots of it.
Most people do not know
how to work to be rich.*

*Although it may not seem like it,
it takes as much effort,
perhaps even more,
to not have as it does to have!*

Learning the ability to invest and where to put your time and money is very important.

Do you know if you have a poverty or rich mentality?

For you to be happy - you have to have your own vision and live it!

*You can have co-motion visions.
You can copy someone else's vision and that will make you yellow zone.*

You must have your own visions in order to have.

You have money because you feel you deserve it.

To deserve it you have to feel worthwhile and you have to produce things that are very valuable.

To deserve it you have to feel good about yourself."

THE ABILITY TO PRODUCE

THINK ABOUT THIS:

What results are you currently producing in the most important areas of your life?

- Your income:

How much money are you generating each month? Is it growing, staying the same, or declining?

- Your physical health:

What is your current weight, body fat percentage, or estimated biological age?

- Your romantic relationship:

Are you happily married or engaged? Are you single, separated, divorced, or in a complicated relationship?

- Your professional impact:

What products, services, or tangible results are you creating that provide value to others?

Take an honest look and assign clear metrics to your current level of production.

THE ABILITY TO PRODUCE

EXERCISE:

Choose one action or strategy you can implement this week to increase your production and income.

Describe your answer in detail.

This image shows a full page of blank, lined paper. It features approximately 20 evenly spaced horizontal green lines across its entire width. The background is a solid off-white color, typical of standard notebook paper. There are no margins, text, or other markings present.

THE ABILITY TO PRODUCE

BONUS ACTIVITY:

Keep a daily log of your production. Each day, write down what you did and what results you achieved (this can include actions taken, income generated, products delivered, clients served, etc.).

At the end of the month, total:

Your overall production (sales, products, deliveries, actions, etc.)

Your total income generated.

Then reflect:

- What patterns do you notice?
- Do you start strong and burn out quickly?
- Do you leave everything until the last minute and only produce under pressure?
- Or do you maintain steady, disciplined production throughout the month?

This exercise will help you identify your production style and give you clarity on how to improve your pace and results.

This image shows a full page of blank handwriting practice paper. It features approximately 20 evenly spaced, horizontal green lines across the entire width of the page. The background is plain white, providing a clear guide for letter height and placement. There are no margins, text, or other markings present.

THE ABILITY TO CREATE WEALTH

This sixth and final skill is the overall result reflected in the last column of your Financial Fitness Graph.

WEALTH n. 1. An abundance of valuable material possessions or resources; riches. 2. The state of being rich; affluence. 3. A profusion or abundance.

It represents the average score of your five previous skills: The Ability to Have, The Ability to Investigate, The Ability to Focus, The Ability to Invest, and The Ability to Produce.

In other words, it shows your current overall ability to create wealth at this stage of your life.

- Final Result in the Red Zone: You have a high tendency to make mistakes and you're not in the right place—or the right time—to create wealth.
- Final Result in the Yellow Zone: If you're below the center horizontal line, you're hopeful but not yet producing consistent results. If you're above that line, you've entered active production.
- Final Result in the Green Zone: You're building wealth—or you've already achieved it. You're making the right decisions and reaping the rewards of your well-aligned skills.

We wish you a wealthy and successful future in the Green Zone!

THE ABILITY TO CREATE WEALTH

Important Note: Remember, this sixth skill isn't something you train on its own—it's the direct result of strengthening the five previous skills. If you want to improve your final score in this column, the path is clear: Build your Ability to Have, Ability to Investigate, Ability to Focus, Ability to Invest, and Ability to Produce.

It has been an honor for me—and for our entire team—to be part of such an important moment in your life.

I'm deeply inspired by your courage and your decision to create a new financial reality—by design, not by accident.

Keep going, keep growing and never forget that everything you need to thrive is already inside you. You just have to ignite the fire within!

Be Your Great Self and with Gratitude,

Ceil Stanford

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Alan C. Walter studied human and spiritual potential for nearly 60 years and trained and coached tens of thousands of people.

He developed a unique new system called Knowledgism, the high-tech, high-touch use of knowledge systems, processes and procedures to optimize economies, societies, areas, subjects, objects, groups, and individuals, and to help their utilizations, quality and viability for the greatest good of all. It is based on win-win accomplishment for all, and includes that which is best from past systems. He was an incredible genius and the history of his life is an outstanding success story.

Alan was born in London and was a small boy during World War II while German bombs were falling. While still very young, he lived briefly in Wales and then finally, his family moved to Australia, where Alan grew up. He received very little formal education and later immigrated to the United States.

At the age of 14, Alan found he could not conform to the existing paradigm of education and life. He dropped out of the public school system because he realized he was being taught how he couldn't or shouldn't do things—rather than how he could do things. That was the beginning of a life-long quest for knowledge through self-education and experience.

Soon after, he demonstrated his entrepreneurial abilities, taking his savings of $30 and buying a horse and two dogs to start a droving business in the Outback of Australia. Soon, he was making more money in a day than his father earned in a week.

At age 19, with no experience, Alan decided he wanted to become a football player. Within two years, he became a professional—by playing for five different teams and gaining, collectively, 10 years of playing experience. He ultimately became a major league player. At the same time, he started a manufacturing enterprise, and built a national sales organization that quickly grew to over 400 sales people.

During his lifetime, Alan experienced great success in business, becoming a self-made millionaire many times over but all the while, his continuing interest was in the field of Human Potential and he came to realize that the ultimate development lies in regaining “Spiritual Potential.”

Alan wrote more than 30 books, recorded more than 1,000 lectures, and dedicated the last 25 years of his life to researching, developing, and documenting his experiences and discoveries.
